: Not all scenery is created equal South West Europe Scenery Collection: Not all scenery is created equal Picking a scenic destination can be very difficult. There's always so much choice to choose from. You can find now every place you could ever dream of to go. But, with good scenic planning, you can visit some of the most spectacular locations in Europe. With a solid knowledge of the vegetation and geological detail of the area, you won't have to wait for the best months to visit. Check out these top scenic destinations in Europe, and you're sure to find something that's perfect for your travel plans. Basque Country (Spain) Image: World of Nature The Basque Country in northern Spain is one of those obscure places that often isn't included in the travel plans of average tourists. However, it's worth a visit. Not only because the stunning scenery is some of the best in Europe, but also because there are plenty of fascinating destinations to visit. For example, you can visit the very real mountainous region of the Bierzo, a very unspoiled nature area that's often overlooked. And check out the City of Santander. While it's not actually Basque, but its name comes from the Celtic, it's still conveniently located on the Ebro River, which is exactly why its beauty was awarded a UNESCO nomination. Monte Pellegrino (Italy) Image: Fotolia Monte Pellegrino, in the Dolomites in northeast Italy, is one of those forgotten but stunningly beautiful little places. Instead of skiing in many of the Alps, many Italians prefer to take a peaceful bus or train trip into this snow-capped alpine mountains. As a bonus, there are many lakes to see. There are also a good number of houses tucked into the valley, with a good number of them converted into boutique hotels or bed and breakfast spots. The casual atmosphere and easy access to nearby trails makes this a great place for adventure holidays. You'll just have to come back in the summer to access all of the local hiking trails. Lake District (England) Image: Chris Markus / Shutterstock.com The Lake District is one of the most popular scenic destinations in England. It features many
