Windroy lets you access the Android feature set and applications from the comfort of your Windows-based PC. Windroy is a complete Android implementation, fully controlled from your native Windows OS. It can be used to emulate most Android devices running from the 1st generation to the 2.3 Gingerbread version. Windroy runs with an exact copy of the Android OS, based on Linux, and boots and runs in the background without affecting your PC at all, therefore no resizing, rebooting, or device rebooting are required. Windroy features:- full emulation of the Android hardware- complete access to all Android apps- full access to the Android OS, its features, apps, settings, folders, and files- mobile network access- support for Windows Media Player and Flash- support for "View Source" debugging feature on the Android browser- support for "Remote Desktop" to provide full access to your Android tablet/phone and devices from the PC Windows 10: Windows 10 Create a new folder on your hard drive called "Win10" and choose the folder location on the partition of your hard drive that you want to install Windows 10 on. Computer File: In the computer file that we need to mount the Windows 10 ISO file, right-click on the ISO file and select the Open With option. Select the folder of the ISO file to mount, which is the Win10 folder we created above, and choose the Open (not the Mount) option. Now click on the Import button in order to save the ISO file in the local system. Close the "mount.exe" file. Move the ISO file to the mount folder we just created (Win10) in our computer system. Select the disk ISO file that we just copied to our computer system. Choose the Run option. Select the Full option in order to install Windows 10 on the disk that we have selected in our computer. Once the installation is finished, close the window. Select the Win10 folder on the hard drive and delete or move the ISO file to the Windows 10 folder. Now, you have successfully installed Windows 10 on your hard drive. Now, you can now boot your computer from the DVD/DVD-ROM drive. In order to do so, you need to connect the DVD drive to your computer system by using the cable. Computer File: Power off your computer system. b7e8fd5c8
