Server Q: Can I use a Mixin in a React JSX function component? Here is an example with a method: const Answer = props => {
const { v } = props const { question } =

props return ({v} {question}); } Here is an example with a class (the important part is the comment):

class Answer extends React.Component { constructor(props) { super(props) this.state = { v: "", question: "" } } handleChange(event) { this.setState({ v: event.target.value }) } render() { const { v, question } = this.state return ( {v} {question} ); } }

Question Is it possible to use a Mixin in the render function of a function component?

AnswerMixin = { render() { const { v } = this.props const { question } = this.props return ( {v} {question
